

LOYALTY PROGRAM

ABSTRACT

A facility for operating a loyalty program is described. The facility monitors purchases made by each of a plurality of customers from merchants that are among a limited set of merchants. The facility then conveys to customers among the plurality -- selected based upon their monitored purchases -- a financial instrument having a face value, whose acquisition cost is less than that face value.